Honorable Jim Jones
Acting Assistant Administrator
Office of Chemical Safety and Pollution Prevention
U.S. Environmental Protection Agency
Ariel Rios Building
1200 Pennsylvania Avenue, N. W.
Mail Code 7101M
Washington, DC 20460

Dear Assistant Administrator Jones:

I write to bring to your attention online sales to the general public of rodenticides that do not comply with the Agency's Risk Mitigation Decision ("RMD") for certain rodenticides. These sales undermine EPA's professed goals of minimizing opportunities for wildlife exposures and children's exposures to these rodenticides, and significantly eclipse the risks imputed in the RMD to products marketed by Reckitt Benckiser Inc. Perversely, however, it is Reckitt Benckiser's products that may become subject to cancellation actions threatened by your office.

Background

In 2008, EPA issued its final RMD for certain rodenticides, effective June 2011, significantly limiting their distribution and use. To minimize children's exposure to rodenticide products used in homes, the RMD provides that rodenticides intended for consumer-use: 1) may be sold only with tamper-resistant bait stations; 2) may be sold only in block form; and 3) are limited to a total maximum net contents of one pound of bait. To reduce ecological risks, consumer products may no longer be formulated with certain rodenticides known as second generation anticoagulants.

However, the RMD permits registrants to continue to sell products that do not meet these requirements, provided that they control distribution such that these products are distributed only in agricultural stores, farm and tractor stores, or directly to professional pest control operators ("PCOs"). In other words, rodenticides marketed for agricultural and professional use may be sold in large quantities, without a bait station, in pellet form, and contain second-generation anti-coagulants, while rodenticides marketed to consumers may have none of these characteristics. The stated goal of this measure is to “dramatically reduc[e] the overall use of second generation anticoagulants by limiting the availability of those products on the general consumer market” without burdening the agricultural industry or limiting the options available to PCOs.

Reckitt Benckiser has chosen not to voluntarily cancel its consumer-use rodenticides containing second-generation anticoagulants, because the Company believes that these products, as currently marketed, are safe, effective, and provide consumers with affordable means of reducing the risks to public health and safety presented by rodent infestations. Consumers must agree, because our d-CON products have long been the most widely used consumer rodenticide brand in the United States. However, as a result of the Agency’s risk mitigation measures, we face cancellation of most of the rodenticide products in our d-CON product line. On November 2, 2011, the Agency issued its draft Notice of Intent to Cancel (“draft NOIC”) certain consumer-use rodenticides affected by the RMD, which included several Reckitt Benckiser products.

Basis for This Request

Reckitt Benckiser has recently become aware that, despite the risk mitigation measures specified in the RMD -- which are the basis for the draft NOIC -- several rodenticide registrants are marketing their products, including many products containing second-generation anticoagulants and/or formulated as pellets rather than blocks, through online retailers who sell to the general public. These products are sold in bulk, in amounts up to 18 pounds per package, and invariably do not include even one tamper-resistant bait station. For example:

- Motomco’s Jaguar brand, which is formulated with second-generation anticoagulant rodenticides, is available in 12-pound containers (pellets); 18-pound containers (blocks); and packages of 73 “place packs,” i.e., pellets encased in individual packets designed to allow rodents to gnaw through to the bait. None of these products is packaged with a bait station of any kind. All are being marketed through Amazon.com, and two of the three are also being sold online via Sears.com, Newegg.com, and Buy.com.
- Motomco also sells its Hawk Bait Chunx Rat & Mice Killer, another product made with second-generation anticoagulants, through Sears.com, Amazon.com, and Newegg.com. The plastic pail in which the product is packaged contains 9 pounds of rodenticide in block form and does not include a bait station.
- Just One Bite, marketed by Farnham, is available online through eBay, Ace Hardware, and Amazon.com in a package containing 86 place packs totaling approximately 8 pounds. The active ingredient in this product is a second-generation anticoagulant.

These are just a few examples; attached is a table of the many bulk rodenticide products available through online retailers, along with an exhibit of web-based advertisements. Moreover, they can easily be found through a search engine; a Google Shopping search brings up dozens of results. When they are sold in these channels, nothing prevents consumers from buying these bulk products for household use, particularly as they are sold by well-known retailers with an extensive online footprint.

The availability of these products online is a matter of concern for at least two reasons: First, to the extent that these products are being purchased and used by ordinary consumers, the Agency's efforts to mitigate potential risks to children and wildlife are mooted, and directly undercut the purported risk reduction that EPA asserts is the basis for the draft NOIC. Indeed, cancelling the sales of small-quantity consumer-use products makes little sense if EPA continues to allow the bulk sales of the same active ingredients in the same configuration that would be banned under the draft NOIC. Second, certain registrants are marketing their products, which do not comply with requirements for consumer-use products, through channels that cannot fairly be characterized as either agricultural or direct to professional pest control operators.

It would be grossly unfair for the Agency to continue to pursue cancellation of consumer-use rodenticides, such as Reckitt Benckiser's, while allowing other registrants to market literal buckets of similar products to the online shopping public. Moreover, EPA's ongoing inaction in the face of manufacturers of bulk products continuing to exploit this loophole directly undercuts the Agency's stated public health and environmental goals — which provide the basis for the proposed cancellation of many of Reckitt Benckiser's rodenticide products. To deny consumers access to a 16-ounce package of d-CON, while enabling them to purchase 16 pounds of a competitor's product, would be arbitrary and capricious and contrary to the risk-benefit balancing test required by FIFRA.

Action Requested

We believe that the Agency, having been made aware of the foregoing facts, will share our concern that its regulatory policies with respect to rodenticides are being circumvented, with the potential for unfortunate consequences. We therefore respectfully request: (i) that EPA withhold any further action on the draft NOIC until it reviews this situation and confers with stakeholders to find an appropriate solution; (ii) that EPA investigate the sale of bulk rodenticides through online retailers to the general public and

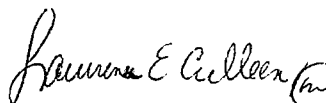

ARNOLD & PORTER LLP

Hon. Jim Jones
April 20, 2012

evaluate the extent to which these bulk sales are responsible for adverse human health and wildlife effects; (iii) that EPA, based on the results of that evaluation, modify the RMD accordingly; (iv) that the Agency consider taking action against the registrants if violations of FIFRA are occurring; and (iv) that we be kept apprised of the Agency's investigation, findings, and other measures in this matter.

We would be pleased to meet with you directly to discuss with you the potential ways in which the RMD could be modified or improved to address these concerns. We look forward to hearing from your office.

Sincerely,

A handwritten signature in dark ink, appearing to read "Lawrence E. Culleen", with a stylized flourish at the end.

Lawrence E. Culleen
Counsel to Reckitt Benckiser

18 Lb Contrac Blox Rodent Control Rodenticide Kills Mice Rats

$77 online

 +1 Recommend this on Google

Contrac All-weather Blox Rodenticide is a multi-edged, single feeding Rat and Mouse bait. It is formulated with an optimal blend of food grade ingredients and low wax to yield a highly palatable, weatherable bait that is very attractive to rodents. Secondary poisoning is very minimal with Contrac and an antidote to the poison (vitamin K1) is readily available. We recommend placing the blox in tamper resistant bait stations to protect the bait from non-target animals such as dogs and cats. This Bait MUST be put inside a Bait Station. Product Features

- For best performance, remove other food sources from the area.
- Rats: Apply 2-8 packs per placement in intervals of 15 to 30 feet along infested areas. Maintain bait supply for 10 days.
- Mice: Apply 1-2 bait blocks per placement (or entire package in highly infested areas) in intervals of 8 to 12 feet. Maintain bait supply for 15 days.
- Voles: Apply directly to burrows or runways and cover well to prevent non-target exposure. Maintain bait supply for 15 days.
- Use tamper-resistant bait stations when children, pets, or non-target wildlife are present.

Product Description

4lb. bucket contains easy to use place packs with green grain bait and Warfarin. Kills Norway & Roof rats, house mice, voles. Kaput Rat & Mouse Bait is a reduced-risk rodenticide that kills Norway rats, Roof rats, house mice, and voles. The bait is formulated with warfarin - a highly effective anticoagulant with very low environmental and secondary toxicity making it a very good pest control product. Because warfarin is effective for rat control at low concentrations, it is one of the active ingredients in rodenticides. However, in cases of accidental ingestion by children or pets, Vitamin K1 is a readily available antidote. Presented as a loose grain, Kaput Rat & Mouse Bait is packaged in two ounce place packs. Rodents readily accept the bait as a food source because it mimics the grains and seeds that they naturally consume. The convenient packaging ensures easy application of the bait in appropriate quantities according to your specific needs. The bait can be placed as a whole, unopened package (the specialized design of the packaging material allows the rodent to smell the bait and gnaw through the pack to access it) or as portions if smaller applications are required.

Kaput Rat Mouse Vole Bait - 60 Place Packs
Product Code: 2187
7.5lb. bucket contains easy to use place packs with green grain bait and Warfarin.
Kills Norway & Roof rats, house mice, voles.
Kaput Rat & Mouse Bait is a reduced-risk pest control product that kills Norway rats, Roof rats, house mice, and voles. The bait is formulated with warfarin - a highly effective anticoagulant with very low environmental and secondary toxicity.
Because warfarin is effective against rodents at low concentrations, it is one of the active ingredients in rodenticides. However, in cases of accidental ingestion by children or pets, Vitamin K1 is a readily available antidote.
Presented as a loose grain, Kaput rat bait is packaged in two ounce place packs. Rodents readily accept the bait as a food source because it mimics the grains and seeds that they naturally consume.
The convenient packaging ensures easy application of the bait in appropriate quantities according to your specific needs.
The bait can be placed as a whole, unopened package (the specialized design of the packaging material allows the rodent to smell the bait and gnaw through the pack to access it) or as portions if smaller applications are required.

RECOMMENDED APPLICATION:

- For best performance, remove other food sources from the area.
- Rats: Apply 2-8 packs per placement in intervals of 15 to 30 feet along infested areas. Maintain bait supply for 10 days.
- Mice: Apply 1 to 2 bait blocks per placement (or entire package in highly infested areas) in intervals of 8 to 12 feet. Maintain bait supply for 15 days.
- Voles: Apply directly to burrows or runways and cover well to prevent non-target exposure. Maintain bait supply for 15 days.

ePestSolutions also offers other rodenticides and mouse control products including mouse traps and repellents.

• Use tamper-resistant bait stations when children, pets, or non-target wildlife are present.

Product Description

Kaput Combo Rat Bait Pellets deliver the first rodenticide that also eliminates fleas for an all-around approach to pest control. The bait is effective against Norway and Roof rats; house mice; meadow, pine, and montane voles; and the fleas that reside on these rodents and may be carriers of infectious diseases. Studies have shown that in times of aggressive baiting with traditional rodenticides, flea populations actually increase, contributing to disease outbreaks as the fleas search for new hosts. Kaput Combo Bait Pellets are effective for flea control and hence prevent the spread of these diseases by targeting the fleas with imidacloprid, as well as effectively killing the rodent population with warfarin. These active ingredients are effective at extremely low concentrations, making them exceptionally safe for use in and around the home. However, in cases of accidental poisonings of children or pets, Vitamin K1 is a readily available antidote. Kaput Combo Bait Pellets are packaged in two ounce place packs. The convenient packaging ensures easy application of this bait in appropriate quantities according to your specific needs. The rat bait can be placed as a whole, unopened package (the specialized design of the packaging material allows the rodent to scent the bait and gnaw through the pack to access it) or in portions if smaller applications are required.

Product Description

Bait Mini Blocks Kaput Combo Bait Mini Blocks deliver the first rodenticide that also eliminates fleas for an all-around approach to pest control. The bait is effective against Norway and Roof rats; house mice, deer mice, and white-footed mice; voles; and the fleas that reside on these rodents and may be carriers of infectious diseases. Studies have shown that in times of aggressive baiting with traditional rodenticides, flea populations actually increase, contributing to disease outbreaks as the fleas search for new hosts. Kaput Combo Bait Mini Blocks prevent the spread of these diseases by targeting the fleas with imidacloprid, as well as effectively killing the rodent population with warfarin. These active ingredients are effective at low concentrations, making them exceptionally safe for use in and around the home. However, in cases of accidental poisonings of children or pets, Vitamin K1 is a readily available antidote. Formulated with paraffin, the Kaput Combo Bait Mini Blocks are moisture-resistant and durable. The blocks have ridged surfaces to facilitate rodent gnawing, and a hole through the center allows the blocks to be fastened down inside a bait station. Quality grains ensure that the rodents are easily attracted to the blocks, and continue to feed on the bait. Recommended Application*: Rats: Apply 2-8 blocks per placement in intervals of 15 to 30 feet in infested areas. Maintain bait supply for 10 days. Mice: Apply 1 block per placement in intervals of 8 to 12 feet. Maintain bait supply for 15 days. Voles: Apply directly to burrows or runways and cover well to prevent non-target exposure. DESCRIPTION

4 Lb Pail Terad3 Blox Rodenticide With Vitamin D3 Reduces The Risk Of Secondary Poisoning

Terad3 Blox Rodent Rat Mouse Bait Vitamin D3 Reduced Risk of Secondary Poisoning - It also poses low toxicity to birds.

All-Weather Formula

Mold & Moisture Resistant

Can Be Used Indoors or Out

Kills Anticoagulant-Resistant Norway Rats

New Premier Formulation with Vitamin D3

TERAD3 BLOX, Bell's newest rodenticide, expertly combines the most recent advancements in bait formulation to yield a highly weatherable BLOX with the low hazard benefits of the active ingredient, Vitamin D3.

After years of researching the most effective formulation for housing this unique active ingredient, Bell scientists have found the perfect match - a denser, tightly compacted 1-oz. extruded BLOX with superb durability and weatherability. Incorporating an advanced preservation system, TERAD3 BLOX is moist and moisture resistant. Its high melting point keeps the bait stable in temperatures as high as 200 degrees F.

Equally outstanding is the bait's palatability. TERAD3 also has a recognized stop-feed action, reducing the need for extensive and continued bait. Ultimately this results in lower total bait consumption with greater cost savings.

TERAD3 BLOX with Vitamin D3 kills anticoagulant-resistant rats and mice yet substantially reduces the risk of secondary poisoning. It also poses low toxicity to birds. With BLOX, bait translocation is also reduced.

TERAD3 BLOX has a broad label which makes it an excellent choice for controlling rodents at agricultural and animal production facilities, warehousing and food processing plants, as well as for commercial and residential accounts.

ACTIVE INGREDIENT:
Cholecalciferol (CAS #67-87-0): 0.075%
OTHER INGREDIENTS: 99.925%
Total: 100.000%

APPLICATION DIRECTIONS:
Norway and Roof Rats: Use 2 to 8 bait blocks per placement. Space placements at intervals of 15 to 30 feet in infested areas. Maintain an uninterrupted supply of fresh bait for 10 days or until there no longer are signs of recent feeding on bait by rats.

House Mice: Use 1 bait block per placement. Space placements at intervals of 8 to 12 feet in infested areas. Two bait blocks per placement may be used at points of very high mouse activity. Maintain an uninterrupted supply of fresh bait for 15 days or until there no longer are signs of recent feeding on bait by house mice.

FOLLOW-UP: Replace contaminated or spoiled bait immediately. Wearing gloves, collect and dispose of all dead, exposed animals and leftover bait. To prevent reinfestation, limit sources of rodent food, water, and harborage as much as possible. If reinfestation does occur, repeat treatment. Where a continuous source of infestation is present, establish permanent bait stations and replenish as needed.
